

JKBOSE 2026

CLASS 11TH

PASSAGE EDITING

LECTURE-1

ENGLISH

HUSSAIN SIR

Topics To Covered

- 1 Determiners
- 2 Modals
- 3 Passage Editing
- 4
- 5
- 6

A decorative gold-colored frame with ornate scrollwork and flourishes, enclosing the text. The frame has a central horizontal bar and two large, symmetrical scroll-like shapes on either side, with smaller scrolls at the top and bottom.

DETERMINERS

Determiners

➤ What are Determiners?

- Determiners are words placed before nouns to determine or limit their meaning.
- They introduce nouns and tell us which, whose, how much, or how many things we are talking about.
- They are always followed by a noun (directly or indirectly).

Example:

This book is interesting. (“this” tells us which book)

Many students are absent today. (“many” tells us how many students)

Determiners

Functions of Determiners

1. They specify the reference of a noun. (Which one? Whose?)
2. They show quantity. (How much/many?)
3. They show definiteness or indefiniteness. (The, a, an)
4. They express possession. (My, your, his)
5. They express distribution. (Each, every)

Kinds of Determiners

1. Articles ✓
2. Possessive Adjectives ✓
3. Demonstrative Adjectives ✓
4. Distributive Adjectives ✓
5. Quantifiers (Adjectives of Quantity and Number) ✓
6. Interrogative Adjectives ✓

Kinds of Determiners

Articles	Possessive Adj.	Demonstratives	Distributive	Quantifiers
a an the	My Your His Her Its Our Your Their	This That These Those	Each Every Either Neither	Some Any Every More Much Few Little	First Second Third Last Next	One Two Three Four Twenty Fifty Hundred

Articles

Indefinite Article

Use of a

- Before a word beginning with a consonant.
E.g.: a woman, a year, a hero, a history.
- Before a vowel which has a sound of yu, wa.
E.g.: a union, a unit, a one-rupee note..
- With singular countable noun-
E.g.: Sam is reading a magazine.
- With common noun in singular number
E.g.: This is a table.
- We can adjectives between the articles and the nouns.
E.g.: This a lovely dress.
- But a common noun in the singular number doesn't have an article before it, when it is used in general sense
E.g.: Man is mortal.

a + adj.

Indefinite Article

Use of an

- Word beginning with a vowel (a, e, i, o, u).
E.g.: an elephant, an enemy, an inkpot
- Words beginning with a silent h.
E.g.: an hour, an honest man, an heir
- When we speak of a person or a thing for the first time we generally use 'a' or 'an'- E.g.: A man saw a boy riding on an ass.
- But when we use the same person or thing a second time we use 'the'-
E.g.: The man punished the boy riding on the ass.

Indefinite Article

Use of The

- When we refer some particular person or thing.

E.g.: Let us go to the club.

The boy enjoys his own company.

The book is in my bag.

- When a singular noun is used to indicate whole class.

E.g.: The dog is a faithful animal.

- Before the names of rivers, seas, oceans, gulfs, mountain ranges and group of islands
- Newspaper, sacred books
- Before directions
- Before races or nations
- Before superlative degree and Ordinal Numeral Adjectives

Indefinite Article

Omission of the

- Proper Nouns, as Towns, Countries, Persons, Peaks, Streets, Days of the week, Month of the year

Used for meals	Breakfast
Used for sports and games	Tennis
Used for planets	Jupiter
Used for names of people, books and plays (unless it is part of the title)	Romeo and Juliet
Used for Lakes	Lake Victoria
Used for mountains	Mount Everest
Used for single Islands	Jamaica

Indefinite Article

Omission of the

- When we use the before proper noun, they become common nouns.
E.g.: Kashmir is the Switzerland of India.
- Names of material nouns.
E.g.: Neither gold nor silver is found here. Clothes are made of cotton, silk and wool
- But we say,
- The cotton of Egypt is superior to that of India.
- Abstract nouns used in general sense
- E.g.: Health is better than wealth Honesty is the best policy.
- But we say,
- I praise the honesty of this boy.

Possessive Adjectives

They show possession or belonging. → (What a noun has)
They tell 'whose' is the thing.

my, your, his, her, its, our, their, whose

Examples:

My brother is a doctor.

Whose bag is this?

Demonstrative Adjectives

Show which object/person is being referred to.

this, that, these, those

Used to point out things.

Examples:

This book is mine. (near + singular)

These books are new. (near + plural)

That boy is tall. (far + singular)

Those houses look old. (far + plural)

This → Singular → near.
That → Singular → Far

These }
Those } plural

Distributive Adjectives

Refer to members of a group individually.

each, every, either, neither

Examples:

Each student got a gift. (focus on individuals)

Every house has a garden. (whole group considered)

Either road leads to the village. (one of two)

Neither answer is correct. (not one, not the other)

Adjectives of Quantity and Number

- Tell us quantity/amount.
 - Some = not exact, but a few/part → I need some water.
 - Many = large number → Many people were absent.
 - Few = very small number → Few students passed.
 - Several = more than two, not many → I visited several places.
 - Much = uncountable → There isn't much sugar left.
 - All = the whole → All the students are here.
 - Enough = sufficient → We have enough money.
 - No = zero → No student failed.

Adjectives of Quantity and Number

Numbers

Cardinals (1,2,3,...) → show number.

Ordinals (first, second, third,...) → show order.

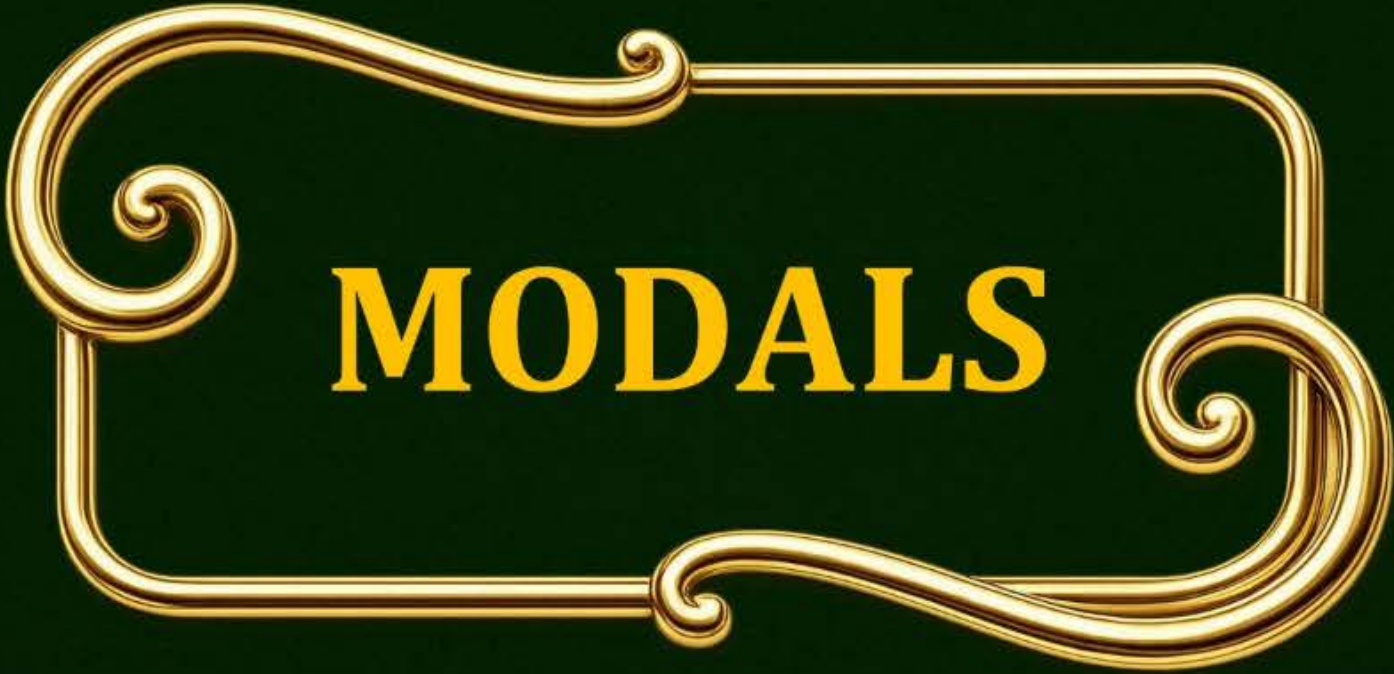

Examples:

I have two brothers. (Cardinal)

She won the first prize. (Ordinal)

Interrogative Adjectives

- They are used with Nouns to ask Questions.
 - Which way shall he take?
 - Whose book is this?
 - Which dress would look good on me?
 - What food would you like to eat?

The word 'MODALS' is centered within a decorative, ornate frame. The frame is composed of a golden-yellow metal with intricate scrollwork and flourishes at the corners and midpoints. The word 'MODALS' is written in a bold, golden-yellow, serif typeface.

MODALS

Modals

- A modal verb in English is a type of ^{Helping verb} Auxiliary verb used to express various ^{moods:} modes in a sentence such as Possibility, necessity, permission, ability, and obligation.
- Modal verbs are a special kind of helping verb. A modal verb helps the main verb to express the mood of the subject.

➤ Different Modal Verbs

- Can – could
- May – might
- Shall – should
- Will – would
- Must
- Ought to
- Have to
- Need

Modal → verb
Auxiliary verb.

Modal verb + Main verb.

Rules of Modal Verbs

1. Modal verbs can never be used by themselves. They always need to be used with another verb.
2. A Modal verb is followed by the base form of the verb. Modal verb + V1
3. In the negative form, modal verbs are used as they are- without any additional auxiliary verbs. Modal verb + not + V1
4. In the Interrogative form, modal verbs are used as they are- without any additional auxiliary verbs like 'do you'.

CAN

(i) It is used to show ability in the present.

I can do it very easily.

She can write English well.

(ii) Can is used to make a request.

Can you please teach me?

(iii) It is used to take and give permission.

Can I use your pen for a minute.

(iv) It can also be used for general possibilities.

She can be a winner.

Modals

COULD

(i) It is used to show polite request in present.

Could you please do it for me?

Can → 30
Could → 60

(ii) Could is used to show specific Possibilities.

He could be sixteen.

(iii) Could is used to show the Ability in the past.

I ^{could}~~can~~ do it very easily.

Modals

MAY

(i) Permission with respect. †

May I come in?

May u help me?

Can → 30
could → 60
may → 90

(ii) Prayer/Expresses a wish

May you live long!

May God bless you!

(iii) More likely possible

He may be coming to see you tomorrow

I have been teaching for long time, I may be tired.

MIGHT

(i) It is used to show less possibility. ✎

It might rain today.

It might reveal your secret.

(ii) Prayer/Expresses a wish

Might I ask for a favour?

Modals

Will

- (i) Will is used to show future. →
I will meet you tomorrow.
- (ii) Request and Offers (casual and less polite way)
Will you give me your car?
Will you have some coffee?
- (iii) Habits (Characteristic Habits)
He will talk about nothing but cricket.
- (iv) Request and Offers (casual and less polite way)
If it rains tomorrow, I will bring my umbrella.
If you stop wasting time, your grades will improve.

Would

(i) Polite Request

Would you please help me.

Would you please give me a glass of water.

(ii) Future in the past

He told me that he would ^{give} me rewards.

I was sure that he would pass.

(iii) Fantasy

If I were a bird, I would fly in the sky.

(iv) Wish

I wish, India would become a developed country soon.

SHALL

- (i) It is used for future time reference with first person pronouns (i.e., I and We).

I shall get a first- class in the exam.

Shall → I, We

- (ii) Command

Those boys shall not enter my office again.

- (iii) Promise

You shall have a holiday tomorrow.

- (iv) Formal Obligation

The students shall pay the fees during the first month of every semester.

- (v) Advice or suggestion

Shall I teach about the modals.

Modals

SHOULD

It is used to show obligation, give opinions and recommendation, give or take advices.

We should help the ones that need help.

He should not play in the next match.

You should start working on your communication skills.

What should I do to get a job?

MUST

(i) Strong Possibility

It is 10:00 o'clock. The teacher must be in the class.

He must be working in the office now.

(ii) Necessity

You must follow instructions.

I must leave now.

(iii) Determination

I must help him.

India must win the world cup.

(i) Moral Obligation (ought to)

It is normally used for 'should', when there is strong sense of moral duty.

You ought to serve your motherland.

We ought to love our country.

A decorative, ornate frame in a golden-yellow color, featuring scrollwork and a central rectangular opening. The text 'Passage Editing' is centered within this frame.

Passage Editing

Q Eight errors in the following passage have been numbered (1) to (8). correct them and write down the corrected forms only against the respective number.

Yesterday ^{an} old ~~man~~ ^{woman} (1) ^{walked} ~~walk~~ slowly (2) along the street. She was ^{carrying} ~~carry~~ (3) a basket, but she ^{could not} ~~cannot~~ (4) hold it well. Many ^{people} ~~peoples~~ (5) passed by and no one helped her. After ^a few (6) minutes, a young boy ^{came} ~~come~~ (7) forward and said, "Can I ^{help} ~~helped~~ (8) you grandmother?" She smiled, and the boy held the basket and walked beside her.

errors	Correct
an	an walk	walked
carry	carrying cannot	could not
peoples	people

error	Correct.
after few	after a few
Come	Came
helped	help

Editing

to + v1 Lie down
— lay down

Some grammatical errors in the following passage have been underlined and numbered. Correct them and write down the correct forms only against the respective number.

The Caliph had ^{been} be told that Abou's wife had died. But the Princess had been told that Abou had died. So both the Caliph and the Princess ^{Came} come (1) to Abou's house. They wanted to find out the truth. When Abou saw them coming, he asked his wife to ^{lie} lay down. Abou, too, lay (2) down in his bed. Both of ^{them} themselves (3) pretended to be dead. Now a fresh controversy ^{began} begins (4). The Caliph said that it was Abou's wife ^{who} which (5) had died first. The Princess said that Abou had died first. ^{Each} Every (6) of them offered a reward to any man who could tell the fact. Abou at once ^{sprung} sprung (7) out from (8) his bed.

Some grammatical errors in the following passage have been underlined and numbered. Correct them and write down the correct forms only against the respective number.

One morning, ^{In} on (1) September 1928, Fleming was examining the bacterial cultures ^{which} who (2) had been prepared the night before. Suddenly, he ^{noticed} notices (3) a bright green ring on one of them. He was annoyed ^{by} with (4) this and thought that the experiment had been spoiled. But instead of ^{throwing} throw (5) away the 'ruined' culture, he put it under his microscope, curious to know ^{how} what (6) exactly it had been spoilt. He saw that a mould had grown on it. It was feeding on the culture and ^{destroying} destroy (7) it. Moulds are growths of very small plants, which can sometimes be seen ^{on} in (8) food, leather or old clothes, if they are left for some time in warm moist air.

Thank
You